

Supporting Early Education Development

SEED is an evidence-based program designed to help early childhood educators, school educators, and professionals working with children understand and support their sexual and social safety needs. Our workshops can be delivered at a workplace or school. Each 3-hour workshop provides practical materials to apply the learning in real-world settings.

Program Highlights:

Understanding Development: Gain insights into childhood sexual and social development across different ages and stages, including typical and atypical behaviors.

Promoting Protective Behaviors: Discover strategies for teaching children about public and private spaces, body autonomy, and appropriate touch.

Emphasising Consent: Understand the critical importance of consent in all interactions.

Effective Communication: Explore the benefits of using supportive and age-appropriate language to foster a safe environment.

Managing Concerns: Equip yourself with the skills to identify, assess, and manage atypical sexual behaviors and other concerns.

Empowering Children: Introduce children to protective behaviors, enhancing their social and sexual safety.
